

GFLEC

GLOBAL FINANCIAL LITERACY
EXCELLENCE CENTER

RELEASE OF THE 2015 NATIONAL
FINANCIAL CAPABILITY STUDY

Financial literacy has gone from 39% in 2012 to 37% in 2015.	46% of respondents have set aside emergency funds sufficient to cover expenses for 3 months.
37% of student loan holders with payments due have been late with a payment at least once in the past year.	40% of respondents feel they have too much debt right now.

The data from the 2015 National Financial Capability Study (NFCS) is now available!

View the results by clicking here.

By clicking above, you will find

- Infographics on the new data set
- FINRA Investor Education Foundation's report on the data
- Links to GFLEC policy briefs, working papers, and reports

analyzing the NFCS data

The NFCS is an ongoing, multi-year project aimed at monitoring and better understanding financial capability in America. The first wave of NFCS data was collected in 2009, the second in 2012, and the third in 2015. GFLEC and the FINRA Foundation co-hosted the release of the 2012 data on May 29, 2013, and today's release of the 2015 data.

If you are in Washington, DC, we hope you can join us today from 3:30 pm - 5:00 pm. The event will be held at the George Washington University School of Media and Public Affairs (805 21st Street NW, Washington, DC 20052). A reception will follow.

Global Financial Literacy Excellence Center
George Washington University School of Business
Duquès Hall, Suite 450
2201 G Street NW
Washington, DC 20052
(202) 994-7148
gflec@gwu.edu
www.gflec.org

