In the past month, we have traveled to six cities and four continents to deliver keynote addresses and advise policy makers, organizations, and financial institutions across the globe. Recognized for our solution-oriented research, we strongly believe financial literacy can change lives and help shape policies and programs around the world. Our presence at the forefront of financial literacy research is a testament to our dedication to and passion for bringing financial well-being to all.
GFLEC would like to recognize and thank its inaugural corporate members.
